

F.5 Visual Art After the French Centenary Fashion Exhibition

F.5 Visual Art

All: Good morning principal, vice principal teachers and fellow schoolmates

Meko: I'm Meko from 5C

Kary: I'm Kary also from 5C

M: Last month we visited the French Centenary Fashion exhibition and I'm still buzzing from it! What did you think?

K: It was amazing! The way they showcased the evolution of fashion as an art form was so inspiring. I loved seeing how each piece told a story.

M: The craftsmanship was breathtaking. The intricate details in the garments felt like they could be displayed in a gallery. Did any specific outfit stand out to you?

K: Yes, the 1920s flapper dresses were stunning! The beading and movement captured the spirit of that era perfectly. It reminded me of the vibrant art movements happening at the same time.

M: I felt the same way! The connection between the bold colors and patterns in fashion and the art of the time was striking. It's fascinating how they influence each other.

K: Exactly! And the modern interpretations of classic styles were impressive. It shows how fashion continues to evolve while paying homage to its roots.

M: I loved how the exhibition integrated multimedia elements too. The videos of designers at work brought the creative process to life.

K: It added another layer to the experience. I left feeling inspired about fashion

F.5 Visual Art After the French Centenary Fashion Exhibition

M: Same here! Let's keep exploring more exhibitions like this. There's so much to learn from the intersection of art and fashion!

K: Absolutely! I can't wait for going to the next exhibition!

All: That's all of our sharing! Thank you